Kathy Gips to Present at the ArchitectureBoston Expo on Friday, November 16 - Register by October 31st for Discounts!

On Friday, November 16, 2012, Kathy Gips, Director of ADA Training and Technical Assistance at the New England ADA Center, will be a featured presenter at two ArchitectureBoston Expo sessions:

ADA Updates 2012
Friday, November 16th
8:30 am - 10:00 am

Join us for this annual workshop covering what's new under the ADA. We will review the ADA Standards for Accessible Design that went into effect on March 15. Focus will be on what's different from the previous ADA Standards. See additional details and register for this session.

Multi-Family Housing and Accessibility: Untangling the Confusion
Friday, November 16th
10:30 am - 12:00 pm

No one set out to confuse architects, but if you've worked on a multi-family housing project in Massachusetts, you know how difficult it is to figure out which accessibility and adaptability requirements apply. We will clarify requirements in new construction, alterations and additions. See additional details and register for this session.

Note: Individual workshops are $85 before October 31 and $95 after. There are additional discounts for multiple session registration. Register for the exhibit hall by October 31 and it’s free, after that it’s $15.

IHCD Book Signing Event:
5:30pm | Monday | November 5th | 200 Portland Street, Boston, MA 02114

Come hear author Deborah Pierce talk about her book The Accessible Home, designing for All Ages and Abilities.

The Accessible Home goes beyond ramps and grab-bars to help aging boomers, or those faced with disabilities, accomplish home accessibility on a deeper level. With a focus on closing the gap between home and homeowner, architect Deborah Pierce leads readers through the steps of universal design—from hiring the right architect to creating an attractive home with the details that make a difference.

This event is free and open to the public. Finger-food and Drinks will be provided!

Where: Institute for Human Centered Design
When: Nov. 5th 5:30pm-7:00pm

To reserve a spot please email wcrolius@ihcdesign.org

Reception and Book Signing
November 15 at IHCD
"Universal Design, A Methodological Approach, A Pathway to Human-Friendly and Elegant Architecture"
by Hubert Froyen

Each year IHCD publishes a book to coincide with our annual Socially Sustainable Design Symposium. This year IHCD is delighted to publish long-time colleague and friend Hubert Froyen’s significant exploration of a potential method for creating a substantive evidence-based method to clarify and inspire the practice of universal design.

Reception and Book Signing:

Where: Institute for Human Centered Design, 200 Portland st. Boston Ma 02114
When: November 15th, 7:00pm-11:00pm
Food and Drink will be provided.
